PROGRAM & ARTISAN GUIDE

WELCOME TO MARKETPLACE

Dear Art and Food Lovers,

Welcome to Indianapolis! Thanks also for being part of this special annual event. Enjoy your time this weekend exploring our beautiful city.

In many respects, this weekend is all about brand development—on a parallel, just look at the NCAA men's Final Four basketball tournament this weekend. Many people around the country are learning more about each university's identity or brand as their teams continue through the bracket. The schools benefit greatly from this deeper understanding of their school's brand – its lore, its qualities, what it offers, and what makes it distinctive.

Indiana Artisan provides something of a Road to the Final Four for the state's artists and food producers and, looking at it that way, this Marketplace could be considered the championship tournament. Twice a year, food and art panels review hundreds of Indiana Artisan applications, and less than 20 percent of those are successfully admitted to the program. Only exceptional work is represented by the Artisan brand which showcases the best of Indiana art and food. This means the work you are able to purchase this weekend, and year-round through the Indiana Artisan website, is truly elite.

The artisans you will meet this weekend have worked hard to make it to this "tournament." They have practiced at their craft for years, and they compete daily in the marketplace. Like the NCAA event, this Marketplace brings the best together and puts real faces and real stories with this exceptional food and outstanding art.

Indiana Artisan was created because this state understands the work of truly exceptional artisans can be part of local economic development. In 2010, Indiana House Concurrent Resolution 34 recognized Indiana Artisan as the state's official program to identify, support and promote high-quality items handmade in Indiana. Its mission is singular: to help expand the businesses of Indiana's exceptional artists and food producers and, through that, expand their local economy.

Thank you for your interest in Indiana Artisan and for being a part of the winning tradition this Marketplace has become.

Sincerely,

Sue Ellspermann, Lt. Governor

Music on the Indiana Artisan

MARKETPLACE STAGE

Indianapolis Chamber Orchestra String Trio

7-9:30 p.m. Friday

The Indianapolis Chamber Orchestra advances and promotes music composed for the small orchestra through professional concert performances and educational programs. Comprised of 34 musicians, the ICO annually presents a concert series of seven performances, as well as accompaniment for many local arts and educational organizations.

Wendy Reed / Blues & Jazz

10-11:30 a.m. Saturday / 10-11:30 a.m. Sunday

Wendy Reed has been entertaining Hoosier audiences for many years. From her sultry torch songs to jazzy, upbeat and popular numbers, Wendy is a favorite for those who love the American songbook.

Blackberry Jam / Bluegrass and Folk

Noon-1:30 p.m. Saturday

The Blackberry Jam folk band is central Indiana's acoustic string band, playing old-time, bluegrass, country blues, Irish, and cowboy songs, with girl duet harmonies and a percussionist with a penchant for drive-by waltzing. With its up-tempo, optimistically oriented variety show, there's something to please everyone in the audience.

Steve Jeffris / Folk, Fun and Ballads

2-3:30 p.m. Saturday / 4-5:30 p.m. Sunday

Steve Jeffris' reputation is entertaining audiences from the first chord to the last and with each one in between. Steve sings and accompanies himself on the guitar with no tracks or canned music, just a drum machine to fill out the sound. His performance career began in the 1980s and it regularly takes him throughout the Midwest and to Florida.

Traveler's Dream / Celtic and Traditional American

4-5:30 p.m. Saturday

The innovative, creative music of Traveler's Dream celebrates the heritage, distinctive landscape, and culture of the Midwest. With powerful voices, rich harmonies and a wide variety of traditional and modern instruments, Michael Lewis and Denise Wilson captivate listeners with spirited songs from the Celtic lands and French Canada, hard-driving Irish jigs and reels, and traditional American songs.

Ann McWilliams / Power Blues with Modern Pop

Noon-1:30 p.m. Sunday

Singer-songwriter Ann McWilliams performs timeless favorites. Her performances are reminiscent of the late '70s and The Pretenders. Ann's arrangements may be different but the familiarity is the same.

Hogeye Navvy / Sea Shanties and Folk

2-3:30 p.m. Sunday

Hogeye Navvy will bring stories of old sailors and ballads about lost love affairs to this weekend of Indiana artists gathering at the Marketplace. The band's Celtic and Scottish foot-stompin' music is fun, funny, energetic, lyrical and engaging.

SPONSORS OF THIS YEAR'S MARKETPLACE

Kokomo / Howard County Convention & Visitors Bureau

The City of Firsts, Kokomo's historic downtown offers family friendly parks, the Wildcat Creek Walk of Excellence walking and biking trail, intercity bikeways, and summertime open-air concerts. Farmers and crafters make up the Saturday farmers' market, and there are unique art and glass studios, restaurants, and places of historical interest, many a short walk from town.

Visit Anderson / Madison County—The Fun Starts Here!

From exciting casino action to live horse racing, from historic theatres and beautiful parks to ancient Great Mounds, Anderson and Madison County is where you want to be! We also offer great sporting arenas, recreation venues and an array of lodging facilities, shopping and restaurants. Anderson/Madison County has everything you want to get your fun started!

Columbus Visitors Center

Travel writer Jordan Simon included Columbus in his Top 10 Things to See in the U.S. Before You Die list on AOL.com. Why? Here are six of the hundreds of reasons: Zaharako's Victorian Soda Shoppe; 240 Sweet Artisan Marshmallows; the world headquarters of Cummins, Inc.; the public sculpture Chaos I; award-winning Mill Race Park; and the People Trail, the 19-mile system that takes you over the river, through the woods, and under the interstate.

Perry County Convention & Visitors Bureau

An outdoor lover's paradise, Perry County, located along the Ohio River, includes nearly 60,000 acres of the Hoosier National Forest. The area includes lakes around which you can enjoy camping, hiking, biking, hunting, fishing, and more. The Ohio River National Scenic Byway provides great bicycling and driving through the small towns that tell the story of the river, the county, and the culture of the area. If your tastes run to wineries, cabins, yurts, or anything involving the outdoors, Perry County is for you.

INDIANA ARTISAN COLLECTIONS

Indiana's Highest-Quality Art and Foods. Together Online. Every Day.

The Indiana Artisan Marketplace is THE way to appreciate the best art and foods from the Hoosier State for three days every year. The new Indiana Artisan Collections make any day special and are always available online for gifts that will be valued and remembered forever.

No ordinary gift baskets, Artisan Collections gather art and foods made by hand and present them in a beautiful container that itself is a work of art. You'll find a cheese board by a woodworker, a pie plate by a potter, a placemat or rug woven into a basket by a weaver, and of course exceptional woven willow baskets – each one filled or stacked high with one-of-a-kind work.

For Mother's Day, treat Mom to Made From Scratch, a batter bowl, wooden spoon, and your choice of wine cake or gluten-free brownie mix. Warm someone's new home with Cozy Evening, a pair of mugs, a carved candleholder, some tasty sweets and an Indiana photography book. Pamper a hard-working friend with Pure Indulgence, a Shaker tray filled with all-natural, personal care products.

More than a gift, you'll be giving work that celebrates Hoosier traditions, has genuine meaning and reflects Indiana's culture.

As you enjoy your visit today, stop at Booth 334 to browse a sampling of the Collections. They start at $28 and can be customized for corporate gifts. When you're home, visit Shop.IndianaArtisan.org to order a Collection that's all art, all food or a beautiful balance of both.

MARKETPLACE PARTNER: VSA INDIANA

Leveraging the Arts to Build Lives

A highlight of this year's Marketplace is a partnership with VSA Indiana. In its large gallery space, VSAI is demonstrating and selling work by its Indiana artists, some of the 5,000 individuals with disabilities in Indiana who access an outlet for creative expression through the arts via VSAI programs.

VSAI was founded as Arts Unlimited. Since 1986, it has been the Indiana affiliate of VSA International, formerly Very Special Arts. VSAI programs are led by professional teaching artists who provide arts programming in schools, community centers, hospitals, and in VSAI's adaptive arts studios in Indianapolis.

"VSA Indiana is thrilled to partner with Indiana Artisan for the 2013 Marketplace! VSA Indiana programs take the focus off 'disability' or what we can't do and emphasize creative and artistic ability," said VSAI President and CEO Gayle Holtman. "The Marketplace is a great opportunity to share this approach and show that artwork created by people of different abilities is original and top quality."

"VSA Indiana leverages the arts to help build lives," said Eric Freeman, director of Indiana Artisan, "and Indiana Artisan leverages the arts to help artisans build businesses. There is so much depth and breadth to how art supports, and is supported by, artists at all levels and in all media, and this year's Marketplace demonstrates that. Both VSAI and Indiana Artisan are statewide organizations, focused on helping artists. The focus is on the people, and this year's Marketplace brings all those talented, creative people together."

SPECIAL THANKS

The right ingredients are a must for great foods; and for art to be exceptional, every detail must be attended to. Like the foods and art available this weekend, this Marketplace itself is artistry created by the hands of many people and organizations.

Many thanks to Indiana Artisans Teri Barnett, Daina Chamness, Carolyn Madvig, and Louise Skinner, all of whom contributed dozens of hours in coordination, confirmations and planning.

Gregg Hiland and John Dockrey, thanks for loading everything, and everyone, in.

Thank you to Chateau Thomas, Carousel, French Lick, and Butler wineries, and to Traders Point Creamery for pairing your Indiana Artisan wines and cheeses for the "Taste of Indiana Artisan" Marketplace preview party. And to the Indianapolis Chamber Orchestra – thank you for making that first-time event even more special.

Indiana Artisan board members Jeanette Merritt and Sally Harmon, thank you for the "Taste" idea and for helping to frame it in such a successful way. Thanks also to board members Brian Blackford, Amy Vaughan and Julia Watson for your leadership with volunteers, advertising and promotion.

Jim and Nora Cleaver – thank you for building the dining room and bathroom walls, painting them, deconstructing and moving them here to the Expo Hall, and for hauling them out when the Marketplace comes to a close.

If you need a printer who will become a true partner, Indiana Artisan recommends Priority Press (www.priority-press.com).

Rob Straka and his team were on time, under budget and over-the-top in terms of service. Thank you for this program and all the printed material you produced for this event.

Before print material is printed, it's designed – sometimes repeatedly. To CODO Design, we cannot say thank you enough – for your great work, your patience and your ongoing branding guidance and expertise. No design firm in Indy gets it done like you do.

Thank You!

MARKETPLACE PARTNER: CHIP KALLEEN, ASID

Local Interior Designer Showcases Artisan Work at Marketplace

The design talent of Chip Kalleen, ASID, owner of Indianapolis-based Kalleen & Co., is behind the two room settings that showcase furnishings and décor by Indiana Artisans. These rooms – this year, a dining room and bathroom – are a new Marketplace component, designed to demonstrate how easily and beautifully you can incorporate authentic Artisan work into your home.

In March, Kalleen visited studios of Indiana Artisans who build high-quality furniture to select individual pieces that anchor both spaces. Completing them are furnishings that run the gamut from rustic to refined and highlight some of the diverse design talent in the State. In addition he selected accessory items such as paintings, pottery, textiles, metalwork, glass, and unique food items to complete the rooms from the more than 150 Artisans participating in this Marketplace.

"The work of nearly 250 Artisans has juried into Indiana Artisan, and it makes quite an impressive collection of talent," said Kalleen, a professional member of the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID). He has served on the board of the Hoosier Salon Patrons Association, and currently serves on the boards of the Design Arts Society at the Indianapolis Museum of Art and the Indiana Glass Arts Alliance. "Creating these room settings is a challenge only because there is so much beautiful and dynamic work from which to choose."

Kalleen brings more than 35 years of design experience to the Indiana Artisan Marketplace. His design for the "Guest Retreat" in the 1996 St. Margaret's Hospital Guild Decorators' Show House was selected by House Beautiful magazine as one of the "Ten Best Show House Rooms in America." He has authored a number of articles over the years, and is co-author of the book Indianapolis Architecture.

Kalleen & Company can be reached at (317) 987-4233, and Chip can be reached directly at chip.kalleen@sbcglobal.net.

Wines from 26 Indiana wineries are part of the Indiana Artisan brand, and the nine that comprise the Uplands Wine Trail are part of Indiana's first all-inclusive American Viticultural Area, further evidence of Indiana's stature as a major player in the wine industry. These nine formed the Trail 10 years ago with a goal to gain the federal government designation as the state's first AVA, and they reached that goal just weeks ago. Eight are serving their wines, and selling by the bottle and case, this weekend at the Marketplace.

Congratulations on the AVA designation to Best Vineyards Winery, Elizabeth; Brown County Winery, Nashville; Butler Winery, Bloomington; Carousel Winery, Bedford; French Lick Winery, West Baden Springs; Huber Winery, Starlight; Oliver Winery, Bloomington; Turtle Run Winery, Corydon; and Winzerwald Winery, Bristow.
